

vanthorre nursery?

Welcome

Autumn is the perfect time to plant! This issue, we feature a few easy projects to help get your garden back in shape: Pruning, dividing your 'roo paws' and growing your own plants from seed.

The nursery is looking fantastic and thanks to our great team, deserving of our recent award. There are many new release plants, including a delivery of unusual Australian plants from Native Plant Wholesalers in Mt Gambier. These cost a little more due to quarantine and freight but include species hard to find in WA.

There's plenty happening at Zanthorea, so we hope to see you in the garden centre very soon.

Happy Gardening!

Alec, Jackie, Ross & team

Welcome to our new team member, horticulturist Rose, who works Sundays and Mondays. Pop in and say a cheery welcome.

Autumn Projects

Autumn is the perfect time to get back into the garden. There's plenty to do whether pottering with secateurs in hand or enjoying a little exercise digging in new plants.

- Add a few flowering plants or spot colour to fill in the gaps left by summer casualties.
- Feed plants such as kangaroo paws, scaevola and rock daisies with organic native plant food, or slow release fertiliser for natives.

- Rake back the mulch and scatter everlastings seed in bare patches.
- Divide kangaroo paws that are looking overgrown.
- Build a frog pond, and add some frog attracting plants such as knotted club rush and other strappy plants.

Dividing Kangaroo Paws

Kangaroo paws are easy to divide. Any time after the first rains until June is a good time.

- Remove them bodily from the ground, take off any old or dying leaves and trim the roots to 10cms.
- Wriggle the rhizome into bits as this helps it break along its natural abscission layer (weak spots).
- Replant or pot the pieces into good potting mix. Look after the young plants very well until the new roots form at least two months. Water in with a Seasol solution to reduce transplant shock.

Many varieties of kangaroo paws are now available including our WA emblem (Anigozanthos manglesii), the black paw (Macropidia fuliginosa), our favourites 'Big Red' and 'Yellow Gem' and some of the hardier 'Bush Gem' range. – Alec

Autumn Pruning Tips

Autumn is a great time to get pruning in the garden, here are some tips to successful pruning:

- Always start your pruning with the 3 D's: Prune out any dead, diseased or damaged material to stop infections from spreading.
- Hard Pruning: The safe rule for 'Hard Pruning' is the one third rule: If unsure how hard you can prune a shrub, only prune up to one third of the foliage off.
- Tip pruning: It is as simple as snipping out the ends of the branches to create a bushier, denser shrub.
- Some plants have interesting trunks, beautiful bark or striking shapes, so it is good to try and emphasize these features.

- Under-pruning: If a shrub has grown too big for a spot, maybe you can prune off the lower foliage and turn it into a tree? Works especially well with tropical hybrid Grevilleas!
- Use your feet during pruning to walk back and have a look at progress, you can't get an idea of shape standing right over the plant!

• It is a good idea to always give a light feed to your plants after pruning, this will give them energy for new growth and flowers.

Be creative, have fun and enjoy pruning in your garden for both the health of the plants and the beauty of the landscape. -Ross

Grow your own plants from seeds

- Fill a few clean pots with seed raising mix and tamp down to 10mm below top of the pot.
- Place a few native plant seeds on top of the soil surface, then sprinkle a little seed raising mix to cover.
- Water well with a very fine spray and place in a sunny raised spot.
- Keep moist until seeds germinate. Hard seeds like the ones from Acacias and Kennedias may need to soak in hot water before sowing. Smoked water also improves germination especially in Banksias.

Autumn Colour

What's Flowering Now

Autumn is a great season of colour and change. The rains bring out the colours of the native wildflowers. Here are some of the autumn flowering plants that are guaranteed to brighten the autumn garden:

Correa 'Winter Bells'

- Correas such as 'Canberra Bells', 'Orange Glow', and 'Dusky Bells'.
- Grevillea 'Ellendale, 'Gilt Dragon' and 'Peaches and Cream'.
- Chrysocephalum apiculatum, commonly called 'Yellow Buttons'.
- Banksia 'Birthday Candles'
- Scaevola (fanflowers).

Grevillea 'Peaches and Cream'

• Roo paws such as Anigozanthos 'Bush Pearl', 'Bush Ballad' and 'Bush Diamond' for colour that will last all the way into Spring/Summer.

Banksia 'Cherry Candles'

Do you have Everlasting love?

What a fantastic display the pink and white everlasting daisies made last winter/spring! These are easy to grow from seeds. Simply remove weeds and rake the ground to form a seed bed. Mix the seeds with some soil improver or compost to help spread them evenly, then broadcast. Snail pellets are essential as the soft seedlings are very tasty!

Plant after the first decent winter rains, and water once a week through any dry spells.

Potatoes are here!

Sacks of new varieties of spuds are arriving each week. Currently in stock is Norland, Kestral and Delaware, more to come.

Growing your own potatoes can be a rewarding experience and a lot of fun for the kids. The trick to success is to improve the soil with plenty of organic matter and fertilise with blood and bone or an organic vege fertiliser. Then as the plants grow continue to build up the soil around the stem with mulch or straw. This way you will get extra spuds!

Book Review

Book Reveiw: 'Pest, Diseases and Beneficials'.

A great new book by F. David Hockings and published by CSIRO based on the book 'Friends and Foes of Australian Gardens'. Every Aussie garden has many things scuttering, flying, hiding and lazing about, but we don't always know whether they are 'good' guys or 'bad' guys. Quality photography helps identify small animals, insects and diseases, with information on life cycles, habits and treatment. This book features many native garden problems which can be hard to diagnose with so little Australian information available. Also further details on beneficial fungi, bacteria, viruses and common horticultural mismanagement issues. -Danielle

Muriel's hardware pick:

- Eco-flo gypsum is a fast acting liquid clay breaker. It is also useful to correct high sodium soils from grey water use and saltwater pool splash.
- Eco-flo dolomite corrects acid soils and boosts calcium & magnesium levels. Being a liquid concentrate it is fast acting.
- Eco-flo lime provides quick calcium for healthy plants and corrects acidic soils. More convenient than powdered lime.

All three products are BFA certified organic.
